The competition was held at at Xiamen University on March 5, 2016.

The KPMG Cup requires student participants to analyze a business case within three hours and generate a formal report to provide solutions and conduct live presentations and defense. The competition aims to test participating teams' capabilities in business case analysis, teamwork and communication skills.

Starting this year, the KPMG Cup has become part of the KPMG International Case Competition (KICC) which will be held from April 11-14, 2016 in Dubai.

Having won the national championship, the CUHK Business School team will represent the Greater China region at the competition. In addition, the winning team members are offered overseas internship opportunities by KPMG.

"We are proud of Eric, Howard, Jansen and Pinky for winning one of the most rigorous case competitions in the country," said Prof. Dennis Fan, Associate Dean (Undergraduate Studies) of CUHK Business School. "It reflects the very high caliber of our students that we now have won the KPMG Cup two years in a row."

21 Lakh Highest Salary - May 15 Deadline

Hosted by Xiamen University, with KPMG as the title sponsor, the KPMG Cup is an annual invitational business case competition that brings together undergraduates of 10 elite universities from Hong Kong, mainland China and Taiwan, including Peking University, Tsinghua University, Fudan University, Nanjing University, Nankai University, National Chengchi University, Sun Yat-sen University, Xiamen University and Zhejiang University.

CUHK Business School was invited to participate for the first time last year and managed to bag the national title twice in a row.

"Our students have demonstrated a strong academic background, excellent teamwork and professional presentation skills. Their outstanding performance has been unanimously recognized by the adjudicators and audience alike," said Dr. Joyce Wang, Lecturer at the School of Accountancy of CUHK Business School and the winning team's advisor in the competition.

"This case competition has also provided a good platform for students from different backgrounds to get to know each other. Our students fully enjoyed their communication with students from mainland China and Taiwan," he added.
